

The Institute of Citizenship Research
IN PURSUIT OF REASON

Democracy is probably the most misquoted and misrepresented mode of government in the modern world. Leaders of governments & nations freely use the word “democracy” to justify all manner of political abuses from the imposition of laws to the frivolous invasion of other countries. If a country is democratic, so they say, then the country is “good”. If we are democratic, as we naturally are, then we are good. The problem is that democracy is a method of administration and not a quality of the individuals who administer their method of administration. Democracy is its people and its processes & not its leaders.

In this booklet, Adrian Thurston lays the foundation for his forthcoming book “The Ideal State” in which he will describe the nature of genuine democracy for use in the 21st century. This is so that the Institution of virtuous Citizenship may function in an Ideal State of genuine democracy and aim at idealism which we will say represents “the good”.

In Pursuit of Reason quickly dismisses the western type assembly representative systems of political administrations as little more than functionaries of big business which only have sales of product in mind: party politics as an authoritarian voice in explanation and reasonable justification for the abuses to be administered in manipulating society according to the whims of big business: modern aristocrats as powerful party political lackeys who will administer the wills of anyone who will further their careers: libertarians who are the remnant of sociopathic warlords: and of course the oligarchs, academics and professionals who will do whatever it takes to maintain the status quo.

This version of democracy is published by Adrian Thurston and his Institute of Citizenship research and in his capacity as Director of the London Lyceum. In Pursuit of Reason identifies elements in western society which damage Citizenship and prevent the virtuous will of the people from being realised in true democratic fashion.

The Institute for Citizenship Research

In Pursuit of Reason

A Pamphlet in Support of the Ideal State

Presented By
Adrian Thurston
Director of The Lyceum

By Command of the Virtuous Good Will of God & The Commonwealth of Nations

June 2008

Price £3.50